A Monster From Long Ago

by Liana Mahoney

It was bigger than a bus. It was as heavy as an elephant.

It had a mouth full of teeth. And they were as sharp as knives.

It was a monster that lived long ago. It was the Tyrannosaurus Rex. Its name means "King of the Lizards." Why?

This dinosaur had strong legs. It had a thick tail. Its jaw was four feet long. That is as big as a first grader! It used its huge jaws and teeth to eat other animals.

The T-rex and other dinosaurs died out millions of years ago. Today, we learn about them by studying their bones.
