

Adjective Clauses - Breaking Apart

An adjective clause, also called a relative clause, is a dependent clause that functions as an adjective in a sentence. These are introduced by relative pronouns such as who, which, that, where, when, whose, etc.

Example: I was residing in Seattle when Joseph was three years old.

I was residing in Seattle. Joseph was three years old then.

Break each sentence into two independent clauses, eliminating the relative clause.

1) Michael is a doctor who has specialized in diseases affecting children.

2) The police arrived _____

3) We have bought a _____

4) Grayson frequents _____

5) We live in a house _____

6) President Washington _____

7) Amanda grew up in London where there are some amazing parks.

8) America has had some great explorers whose lives are nothing short of heroic.

PREVIEW

Gain complete access to the largest collection of worksheets in all subjects!

Members, please log in to download this worksheet.

Not a member? Please sign up to gain complete access.

www.mathworksheets4kids.com

_____ exquisite.

_____ s house.

_____ s of Americans.