

Making A Rainbow

by Katie Clark

When I'm feeling sad or grumpy, I like to look at colors. They make me feel happier. When Dad said we could paint my room I picked yellow. When Mom asked what color blanket I wanted for my bed I picked blue and I really like colors.

Yesterday Mom and Dad were sad. Tomorrow after school I will bring balloons and balloons. Those

But now I am sad but I do have crayons.

First, I clear off my desk. I take out my clothes. Next, I open my

Then I begin my art. I start with red, then orange. Next comes yellow, green, blue, and purple.

I focus on making my lines nice and neat. That's the kind of art I enjoy.

When I'm done, I hold up my paper. It's a beautiful rainbow. Most importantly, it's very colorful.

A new idea comes to me. I smile and tuck the paper away in my backpack.

The next day, Mom picks me up from school. My paper is still resting in my bag. Mom drives us to the hospital. We ride the elevator to the second floor. We find Uncle David's room.

Uncle David lies in his bed. He smiles when he sees us. Mom gives him the balloons and flowers. I open my bag and give him my rainbow.

Uncle David's
