Read the poem and underline the sounds that contribute to the alliteration in it.

Welcome to the zoo, where wonders await,

Where animals amble and antics abate.

In cages and enclosures, they happily roam,

In a colorful kingdom

Giraffes gracefully graze

While monkeys swing

Elephants elegantly tread

Underneath the gold

Zigzagging zebras zoom

As lions lounge, taking

Toucans tweet tunes

While kangaroos kick

Penguins parade, waddle

As flamingos flaunt their

In the reptile house, where serpents sleep,

Snakes slither silently, secrets to keep.

Through the zoo we wander, wide-eyed and bright,

Each animal's story a magical sight.

So come along, let's explore anew,

In this wondrous world made just for you!
