

An adjective clause, also called a relative clause, is a dependent clause that functions as an adjective in a sentence. These are introduced by relative pronouns such as who, which, that, where, when, whose, etc.

Example Shawna is a teacher whom everyone adores.

Shawna is a teacher. Everyone adores her.

Break each sentence into two independent clauses, eliminating the relative clause.

1) The children ate the meal that Grandma had baked.

2) The prize was given to the student who had the highest score.

3) Jenna is friends with Tania, who works at the beauty salon.

4) The family dog, who was very friendly, was the best.

5) I still remember the day when we went to the beach.

6) Heather spoke to the teacher, whom everybody likes.

7) Cora and Tania bought a house that was sold for cheap.

8) Are you friends with Brian, whose dog bit my son?
