Statue of Liberty

by Katie Clark

Many people know about the Statue of Liberty. It stands in New York Harbor. It stands for freedom for all.

What many people don't know is the history of the statue. They don't know where it came from. They don't know what it means for the world.

Do you know the statue was first built, it was called Liberty. This told others what it stood for.

The idea for the statue was to celebrate the 100-year birthday of the United States. It was special to show their gratitude to the founding fathers. The statue was made of copper.

A French sculptor named Frédéric Auguste Bartholdi designed the statue. It took him a long time to finish it. The French gave it to the United States as a gift.

American artist Auguste Rodin helped design the statue. America made the statue. The base and statue were set up on an island in New York Harbor. It stood tall to welcome people to the country. Those who saw it viewed the statue as a mark of freedom.

Today, this island is called Liberty Island. It is where the statue has stood for over one hundred years. Weather has changed the shiny copper into a dull, green color.

The statue is 305 feet tall. It features a woman holding a torch. The torch lights the way for the future.
