Quantifiers

A quantifier is a word or a phrase that specifies the amount of the noun that follows it. Quantifiers function as adjectives answering the question 'how much' or 'how many'.

Example: We still have many places to visit.

Underline the quantifier, and circle the noun it quantifies in each sentence.

1) You should add a pinch of salt to the soup.

2) Jack has a little money.

3) We don't have much time.

4) Several native Americans live here.

5) There are not many people here.

6) Very few birds stay here.

7) He has penned several books.

8) Sandra plays basketball every day.

9) Have you got any pumpkins in your patch?

10) The animals in the forest don't have enough water to drink.
