Where am I?

Read each paragraph and infer where the narrator is.

1) I am rolling in the grass. Trees and bushes surround me. A wooden fence encloses the area. A swing sits to one side. A trampoline is on the other side. Birds who are perched on the tree branches chirp out a happy tune. My dad is inside the house. He calls out to tell me, “It’s time for lunch”. I stand up from the grassy ground and head inside.

Where am I?

_________________________________________________________________________

2) Blackness surrounds me. I float through it with my arms outstretched. There is no gravity to hold me down. A shooting star blazes past in the distance. Other stars burn near and far. I’m wearing a puffy, white suit. There’s no gravity and there’s no oxygen too. Earth floats ahead of me. It is big, blue and beautiful.

Where am I?

_________________________________________________________________________

3) I sit in my seat, as a lady at the piano plays a soft melody. Each chair in the auditorium is decorated with white flowers. Everyone is wearing pretty clothes with lace and silk. I am wearing a puffy pink dress. The lady at the piano plays a new song. Everyone stands, and the back doors of the auditorium open. The bride steps inside.

Where am I?

_________________________________________________________________________
Where am I?

Read each paragraph and infer where the narrator is.

1) I am rolling in the grass. Trees and bushes surround me. A wooden fence encloses the area. A swing sits to one side. A trampoline is on the other side. Birds who are perched on the tree branches chirp out a happy tune. My dad is inside the house. He calls out to tell me, “It’s time for lunch”. I stand up from the grassy ground and head inside.

Where am I?

I am in the backyard.

2) Blackness surrounds me. I float through it with my arms outstretched. There is no gravity to hold me down. A shooting star blazes past in the distance. Other stars burn near and far. I’m wearing a puffy, white suit. There’s no gravity and there’s no oxygen too. Earth floats ahead of me. It is big, blue and beautiful.

Where am I?

I am in outer space.

3) I sit in my seat, as a lady at the piano plays a soft melody. Each chair in the auditorium is decorated with white flowers. Everyone is wearing pretty clothes with lace and silk. I am wearing a puffy pink dress. The lady at the piano plays a new song. Everyone stands, and the back doors of the auditorium open. The bride steps inside.

Where am I?

I am at the wedding.