Read each passage and write what happens next.

1) Young Franklin had been enjoying every moment of his vacation in the countryside. It was an exhilarating experience to spend time with his grandparents at the farm house. He helped Grandpa and Grandma clean the barn, feed the cattle and went for strolls in the fields. One evening, when his grandparents were away, Franklin noticed smoke in the barn.

2) Every child in that neighborhood loved the Andersons and the captivating stories that they told. The Andersons now were quite weak and old. They could barely manage their daily household chores. A good caretaker could be such a great help they thought. But caretakers were not just hard to find but expensive too. The children decided that it was now time to repay the kindness of the Andersons.
