

Subject and Predicate

When a sentence has more than one subject, it is called a compound subject. A coordinating conjunction joins the individual subjects.

Example: Books and papers were placed on the desk.

Underline the compound subject in each sentence.

1) Bread and butter is served here.

2) Sam or

3) The bus

4) Roses and tulips grow in our garden.

5) Either the boy or the girl is coming.

6) Soccer and basketball are popular sports.

7) The coach or the players will move to the new field.

8) Science

9) Either the teacher or the students will clean the classroom.

10) Neither the microphone nor the speakers were working during the presentation.

PREVIEW

Gain complete access to the largest collection of worksheets in all subjects!

Members, please log in to download this worksheet.

Not a member?
Please sign up to gain complete access.

www.mathworksheets4kids.com

