

Rosa Parks

by Katie Clark

Rosa Parks was a Civil Rights icon and a defender of racial equality. She is a picture of heroism, bravery, and perseverance. While it took years for some people to see this, many others loved her from the very beginning of her heroic journey.

Rosa was born in 1917 in Tuskegee, Alabama. She was raised by her mother, who was a seamstress. They taught Rosa about respect and dignity for all people no matter their race.

In the days of segregation, African Americans were not treated equally. They did not have the same rights as white people.

When Rosa became a seamstress in Montgomery, Alabama. One night while she was riding the bus, she refused to give up her seat to a white passenger.

While she rode the bus, the driver stopped the bus. He said there wasn't enough room for all the white passengers to sit, so some of the African American passengers needed to give up their seats for them. The driver asked Rosa to get up.

Rosa said no. She was in the seat that was designated for her, and she would not give it up. She believed she had as much right to sit as anyone else.
