Underline the misplaced modifier in each sentence, and place it correctly.

1) Sandra served hamburgers to the children on disposable plates.

2) Liam nearly spends two hours a day studying math.

3) New Martha's book is about travel.

4) Tim got only selected for the event; nobody else made it.

5) Liana has heard about Paris only; she hasn't been there.

6) Dan only speaks Chinese; he speaks no other language.

7) Ervin has almost lived three years in London.

8) We returned the device to the store that didn't function.

For the meaning of a sentence to be clear, it is important that its modifiers are in the right place. A modifier put in the wrong place is called a misplaced modifier.

Example: Smith saw a cat on the way back from school.

It seems that the cat was on its way back from school and not Smith, which is not the case. So the sentence should be corrected as

On the way back from school, Smith saw a cat.

Gain complete access to the largest collection of worksheets in all subjects! Members, please log in to download this worksheet. Not a member? Please sign up to gain complete access.
Misplaced Modifiers

For the meaning of a sentence to be clear, it is important that its modifiers are in the right place. A modifier put in the wrong place is called a misplaced modifier.

Example: Smith saw a cat on the way back from school.

It seems that the cat was on its way back from school and not Smith, which is not the case. So the sentence should be corrected as

On the way back from school, Smith saw a cat.

Underline the misplaced modifier in each sentence and place it correctly.

1) Sandra served hamburgers to the children on disposable plates.

   Sandra served the children hamburgers on disposable plates.

2) Liam nearly spends two hours a day studying math.

   Liam nearly spends two hours a day studying math.

3) New Martha’s book is about travel.

   Martha’s new book is about travel.

4) Only Tim got selected for the event, nobody else made it.

   Tim got only selected for the event; nobody else made it.

5) Liana has only heard about Paris; she hasn’t been there.

   Liana has heard about Paris only; she hasn’t been there.

6) Dan only speaks Chinese; he speaks no other language.

   Dan speaks only Chinese; he speaks no other language.

7) Ervin has almost lived three years in London.

   Ervin has lived almost three years in London.

8) We returned the device that didn't function to the store.

   We returned the device that didn't function to the store.